FOUR WERE FULL OF THE OIL OF JOY

Young Girl was in Quartette Arrested on a Charge of Public Intoxication.

OLD VET TOO ILL TO APPEAR

Three up on Green Carpet Before
Mayor Cowing and are Committed to Jail.

The lid was off in the west end of the city last night and the "wets" carried the night, by a big majority. The cause of the trouble came from two men and two women who were filled to overflowing with the "oil of joy" and who indulged in stunts that usually follow when persons have such a cargo aboard.

As a result of the fracas Elijah Pea Sr., Elijah Pea Jr., Miss Goldie Dinwiddie and Miss Clara Levi were placed under arrest by the police. The last three named faced Mayor Cowing this morning and were fined one dollar and cost for drunkenness. Neither of the trio were able to pay their fine and were committed to the county jail. Elijah Pea Sr. was so ill from the after effects of the revelry that he was unable to appear in court today. He has a fine awaiting him as soon as he is able to leave his bed.

The police are determined to break such debauchery and orgies, especially where a young girl like the Dinwiddie girl is concerned. She is little more than a child and this is her second offence on the same charge.

YOUNG LADS WERE HELD IN CUSTODY

Mayor Cowing Received Telephone
Message From Indianapolis
Police Concerning Boys.

THOUGHT THEY LIVED HERE

Mayor Harvey Cowing received telephonic communication from the police in Indianapolis this afternoon making inquiries as to the names of two boys that they were holding in custody. The police were of the opinion that the youths were from this city and that they were running away from their homes. Mayor Cowing made inquiries over the city to learn whether or not the lads of such description were missing and was unable to discover anyone to whom they might belong. He replied that they did not belong here.

LACKEY HORSE SALE IS ON

The famous Lackey horse sale began at Cambridge City yesterday morning at 9 o'clock and will continue until Friday evening. This year's event is advertised as the largest yet and some of the best horses that ever went on the block will be sold. Rushville is always well represented at the Lackey sale and this year will be no exception. It is probable that several local horsemen will make purchases as many different kinds of harness and saddle horses are listed.

ENTERTAIN MANY GUESTS AT CAMP

Sugar Grove Farm at Carthage Owned by Edward Atkins is Scene of Much Merriment.

ONE OF THE LARGEST IN STATE

Edward Atkins, proprietor of the "Sugar Grove Farm" at Carthage owns one of the largest sugar camps in the State. The camp is now running full blast and many gallons of molasses are being made daily.

The farm comprises 198 acres, eighty of which are occupied by the camp. A large two story brick house stands on the farm, which every Saturday and Sunday is filled with gay guests, who enjoy the sugar making, chicken roasts and other modes of entertainment to be had on the farm.

SUGAR CAMPS ARE NOW "WIDE OPEN"

Source of Much Fun in the Rural Districts for the Young

The sugar water season of the year is here, but the flow will not be unprecedented. Owners of sugar tree camps do not anticipate an average yield this year because of the mild winter season just past. Trees are being tapped, however, and the flow, which is of good grade, is being well cared for.

One of the pleasures of school life is unknown to the city boy and girl. In the rural districts the sugar camp is an alluring place in the spring of the year and many truant marks find their way on the school register as mute testifiers of the students whereabouts in the spring.

The horse will be shipped next week to Augusta, Georgia, and will make the season of 1909 in that city. The horse brought a good round sum of money.

WATSON MAY GET AN APPOINTMENT

President Authorizes Statement That he May be Sent to Foreign Post.

SEN. BEVERIDGE IN ACCORD

Was Indorsed by Several Representatives for District Attorneyship.

A dispatch from Washington in the Indianapolis Star has the following to say of the future of James E. Watson:

Senator Beveridge called on President Taft this afternoon in regard to the district attorneyship at Indianapolis, and in a brief interview the President authorized the statement that Charles W. Miller would be appointed. His name probably will be sent to the Senate soon after the special session convenes next week.

Earlier in the afternoon representatives from Indiana called on the President and indorsed James E. Watson for the district attorneyship. Mr. Taft told them that he would be governed by Senator Beveridge's wishes.

According to current rumor, the President will offer an important post to former Representative Watson. Senator Beveridge is heartily in accord with this program and will indorse Mr. Watson for any place the President selects for him.

In announcing Mr. Miller's appointment Mr. Beveridge said that no other vacancies of any importance in state or federal offices now occupied by Indians will fall due next year.

In making all appointments he wishes it understood that he proposes to act in the spirit of his recent speech to the Republican editors. He said he wished it made clear that all elements of the party would be recognized in these appointments regardless of former political affiliations.

Senator Beveridge also said that he proposed to take plenty of time to select the best men he could find for the positions that will have to be filled next year, and in the recommendations that he would make to President Taft two things would be kept strictly in view—the recognition of all elements of the party and the selection of the best and most available man for each place. In no instance will an announcement be made of any person who is to be remembered for office until after the vacancy occurs.

As far as lies within Senator Beveridge's power he will use the appointive power that belongs to him in trying to bring all elements of the Republican party in Indiana into harmonious agreement.

Popular Young Man Sneaks Away
And Returns With a Bride
From Connersville.

FRIENDS ASSEMBLED THERE

But Were Surprised When They Learned That a Wedding Was Feature of The Evening.

Miss Elizabeth Louise Becker of Connersville and Mr. Harry Boyd, a popular young man of this city, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Harry Saylers in Connersville last night. Mr. and Mrs. Saylers were entertaining a number of friends who were not aware that a wedding was to take place until the bride and groom arrived, followed by Rev. Beving of the German Presbyterian church. In a very formal manner the ceremony was consummated. A reception followed and after refreshments were served the couple left at once for this city. This morning they left here for Goshen, Indiana, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Will Coverton and family for several days. After April 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will be at home in 221 West First street, this city.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Story of the Trunk—365. Harry Boyd, the main guy at the Social bowling alleys was married last night to a Connersville girl. He wanted to steal a march on his friends and therefore chose the month of March for the deed. But the best laid plans of men and mice oft run off the gang plank. The performance of the ceremony was carried out as planned, without any hurrah here. But the trunk. Ah! thereby hangs a tale. Boyd went to Connersville three days ago and got the bride's trunk. It has been in safe keeping and cold storage at the traction station here since. They intended sailing away on the Red Line, but last night changed their mind. Arriving here at 10 o'clock, Boyd found it impossible to get a baggage wagon to cart the trunk to their rooms in First street. The bride had on her wedding trousseau and she must have that trunk. The valiant groom put on his rubber gloves and hid himself to the traction station. There he found a boy who assisted him with the trunk and they carried it down alleys all the way. Lo! and behold when the trunk was wrestled up the stairs it was found that neither had a key. They phoned to Connersville and had to wait until this morning when the key was sent on an early car. The bride and groom sat up all night waiting for the key. Today they left for Goshen.

ENDLESS CHAIN PRAYER SYSTEM

Is Being Worked by Someone in This City Through the Local Post Office.

CAUSE AUTHORITIES TROUBLE

Generally Sent to Superstitious People Who Comply With All the Requests.

The endless chain system of prayer, that is being worked by some one in this city through the local post office is causing the postal authorities no end of trouble. The writer sends a letter to nine different people asking, that they write the same letter to nine of their friends and in this way an endless chain is perfected. In this manner a great number of people can be reached in a very short time and if, all perform the task that is asked them by the author, the post office would soon be flooded with useless mail.

For this reason an order has been issued by the postal authorities at Washington asking that all officials, when they discover a letter of this sort, to send it in to the dead letter office. The practice is stopped to a certain extent by this means, but there are many of them that escape the close eye of the postal clerk.

The author of the letter writes a simple prayer and asks, that it be copied and sent to nine different friends with the same entreaty attached to it. They claim that if the request is not complied with, that some great calamity will befall the recipient of the letter and that if the request is complied with that he or she will experience some great joy on the ninth day, that will come wholly unheralded and unexpected. At the end of the letter an earnest request is made, that the chain shall not be broken and, that the writer make a wish while writing the letter and that it will in the near future come true, if everything is accomplished that is asked of them. This is sent in most cases to ignorant and superstitious people, who generally perform all that is asked of them believing it all to be true.

CHANGE THE RULE FOR SUBSTITUTES

New Practice Has Been Adopted by the Post Office Department in Reference to Rural Carriers.

WILL MAKE BETTER SERVICE

Postmaster Charles Frazee is in receipt of a new order concerning rural carrier substitutes.

In filling avacancy in the position of rural carriers it has been the practice to give preference to the substitute assigned to the route on which the vacancy exists if he has been a bonded substitute for six months.

The new order changes this practice and certification will be made in favor of the substitute at the office who has the highest rating on the list of eligibles.

It is believed that this policy will enhance the efficiency of the service. A substitute in order to be entitled to consideration for preference must have been a regular bonded substitute for a period of not less than six months, and have passed the required examination.

Dandruff Germs Must Go.

In America the dandruff germs must go. The war of extermination has been declared. The battle has begun, and already thousands of intelligent Americans have permanently rid themselves of this filthiness.

Today it is no more necessary for a man to have dandruff in his hair than to have tartar on his teeth.

Dandruff can never be cured until the small, aggravating and indomitable dandruff germ is conquered and destroyed.

And millions of dandruff germs have been destroyed thanks to the great scientist and dermatologist who gave to the world Parisian Sage, the only real dandruff cure and hair grower the world has ever known.

If you have dandruff, Parisian Sage will cure you in two weeks, or your money back.

But besides ridding the scalp of dandruff, Parisian Sage is guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. It is not a dye. It is a prime favorite with women of refinement. It makes the hair soft, lustrous and beautiful, and is not sticky or greasy.

HIS STORY WAS PURE FICTION

Mueller Confesses That He Killed Miss Reed.

NO HIGHWAYMAN IN IT AT ALL

Pressed by the Police, Baltimore Man Confesses Killing His Sweetheart, Miss Reed, but Says the Shooting Was Accidental—in Light of Other Circumstances the Police Are Inclined to Doubt This and Hold Opinion That Highway Tragedy Was Premeditated.

Baltimore, Md., March 10.—Under searching questioning by the police, John J. Mueller confessed that it was he who Monday night shot and killed his sweetheart, Miss Regina Reed, and that there was no truth in the story he told immediately after the shooting, to the effect that he and Miss Reed were held up at a lonely spot near Mount Washington, a suburb, by highwaymen, who after securing Mueller's money, demanded a necklace worn by Miss Reed. Mueller stated Monday night that in response to this demand Miss Reed slapped the highwayman's face and that thereupon the fatal shot was fired.

Mueller declares the shooting to have been entirely accidental. His story, however, is not credited by the police, whose theory is that the killing was premeditated. They believe that Mueller wished to break off the engagement with Miss Reed. The wedding was set for April 14.

Mueller and Miss Reed figured last December in an episode in which an anonymous letter and a box of poisoned candy were incidents. The letter received by Mueller threatened him with harm if he did not cease his attentions to Miss Reed. He also claimed to have been made ill by eating a portion of the candy, likewise received by him through the mails, and which upon investigation was found to have been poisoned. The police believe that Mueller sent both the letter and the candy to himself, and that even at that time he was planning to get rid of Miss Reed.

The Daily Republican

Complied With the Law.
A certain well known Mobile lawyer, who was lame and had something of a reputation as a fighter, was at one time attorney in a suit that caused much ill feeling. He won the suit for his client, and the loser vowed vengeance. "In pursuance of that same," in the language of Truthful James, he one day went into the lawyer's office and subjected him to a tirade of abuse that would have caused a salt water captain to die from pure envy, such was his talent in vituperation.

The lawyer answered him nothing, to the surprise of two or three men who were present, but, getting out of his chair, began to hobble backward. His enemy, thinking he was retreating, followed him up, with more abuse and threatening gestures. The lawyer's foot finally struck against the wall, when he suddenly straightened up and, saying "Gentlemen, I call on you to witness that on account of this wall I have retreated as far as possible" (the general law of homicide), drew out a Derringer and shot his opponent.

At the trial he was acquitted, his witnesses being the men present at the time of the killing, who testified to the lawyer's having retreated as far as possible.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR A GOOD STOMACH

This Offer Should be a Warning to Every Man and Woman.

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others.

Everyone who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give anything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices. There is one element missing. The absence of this destroys the functions of the gastric fluids. They lose their power to digest food.

We are now able to supply the missing element—to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power, and to make the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will positively and permanently cure disordered stomachs, indigestion and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Why Sailors Like "Scraps."
It has long been observed that the sailor, whether in commercial or government service, takes a peculiar delight in "mixing up" with the blue-coat, but this inclination has been attributed more to a natural exuberance which comes with a land leave, accelerated somewhat by artificial means, than to animus inherent with deep sea life. But why this feeling? Perhaps it is that the strict rules of marine service, the long periods of close confinement to which the seaman is subjected, make him a hater of any one who wears the emblem of authority when he is temporarily enjoying freedom on shore leave away from the restraints aboard ship. The sailor wants liberty in its full sense, and, realizing that the bluecoat is the chief obstacle to his obtaining it, he develops a firm conviction that the policeman ought to be trounced on general principles. In time it becomes his chief peaceful ambition.—Brooklyn Standard Union.

Poetic Justice.
A certain couple in a New England village, each the parent of six children, had meted out to them a kind of poetic justice in which they failed to see the poetry.

The woman, a widow, pleading that she had no home and was therefore unable to care for her children, induced the local authorities to admit them to an orphan asylum. The man, a widower, pleading he had no housekeeper and therefore no one to care for his children, induced the authorities to admit his six also. Thereupon, being freed from all incumbrances, these two married.

All went well for a few months, when the authorities, learning of the situation, promptly dispatched the twelve children back to their parents, and, the woman no longer able to represent herself as homeless or the man as without a housekeeper, they were forced to receive them.

Death in Various Forms.
A crank came running into the office and said that a man swallowed a two foot rule and died by inches. The editor started out at once to learn further particulars of the death and, meeting Dr. Martin, told him about the case. He said that was nothing; that he had a patient once who swallowed a thermometer and died by degrees. A couple of bystanders just then chipped in. One of them said it reminded him of a fellow in Kansas who swallowed a pistol and went off easy. The other one said he had a friend who took a quart of applejack and died in good spirits.—Exchange.

GROWING DEATH LIST IN BRINKLEY TORNADO
Thirty Killed and Twice That Many Injured.

Brinkley, Ark., March 10.—Thirty or more lives were snuffed out, sixty people were injured and property estimated to be worth $1,000,000 was destroyed as a result of the tornado which wrecked this little city Monday night. Of the known dead, fourteen are white people.

The tornado shrieked above the city only a few minutes, but its work of destruction was complete. The Roman Catholic church, standing directly in the path of the storm, alone escaped damage or destruction, and stands today grimly in a scene of desolation. It has been converted into a hospital. Main street and Cypress avenue, the two principal thoroughfares of the town, are now impassable and are piled high with wreckage from end to end.

Every business house is in ruins and there is hardly a home that has not at least suffered the loss of a roof or a window. The Arlington hotel was totally demolished. Eighty guests were registered there, but all escaped uninjured. The Brinkley hotel, Southern hotel and Kelly hotel were all destroyed, without loss of life, however.

Two Men to Fill His Place.
Chicago, March 10.—At the office of President J. T. Harahan of the Illinois Central Railroad have been announced the changes resulting from the appointment of J. M. Dickinson, general attorney of the road, as secretary of war. Blewett Lee will be general attorney in the territory south of the Ohio river and in Indiana. William S. Kenyon will be general attorney in the territory north.

Attempted Bribery Charged.
Pittsburg, March 10.—True bills have been returned by the grand jury in the cases of Charles and John Colbert, accused of attempting to bribe jurors in connection with recent councilmanic graft trials.

With Interest.
"Yes, I know that certain passengers object to tipping on principle; but, speaking for myself, I believe in it," remarked a ruddy faced old man in the corner of a third class smoker. "It is only right to reward courtesy, and I always make it a point of giving the guard of this train sixpence when he comes to see if I'm all right, although I'm only a poor man."

The other passengers, not to be outdone, thereupon dived into their pockets, and when the guard popped his head inside the door a few minutes later he found himself overwhelmed with silver coins.

An hour passed, and the passengers got out one by one until the old man was left facing a spruce commercial traveler, who leaned toward him confidentially and asked him how he could afford to give the guard sixpence every time he took a journey.

"Oh, don't worry yourself about that," responded the old man. "I dare say I shall get it back with interest."

"How will you?"

"The guard is a son of mine!"—London Globe.

Couldn't Fool Him.
A Morris River oysterman attended a band contest one winter night in Morris River. The contestants blew into their great horns as if to burst their lungs. The drummers banged their drums with might and main. Cheeks were red and round like apples. Eyes almost started from their sockets. The oysterman enjoyed it all. But his attention was distracted by a deaf old gentleman who in the pianissimo passages put a large silver ear trumpet to his ear. Whenever he did this the oysterman sneered. And at last his honest hatred of anything approaching sham overcame the man's reserve. He elbowed his way to the deaf old gentleman and said:

"Look here; that don't go here. Everybody knows you can't play that with your ear. Put it away, mister. You can't fool us."—Los Angeles Times.

Toys of Revolution Times.
The toys of the French revolution period were characteristic of that terrible time. There are tops whose shadows cast the profile portraits of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette. These are turned in boxwood and are indeed interesting reminiscences of toys with the impress of history. The children of the revolution had their tiny Phrygian caps and danced the horrible carmines in their play. Little models of the guillotine were made to "work," and the bodies of pigs with heads of Louis XVI. were decapitated. Models of the Bastille were popular. Playing cards with figures of revolutionary heroes were made when kings, queens and aristocratic knaves were taboo.—From "Toys of Other Days," by Mrs. F. Nevill Jackson.

Dickens' Full Name.
Charles Dickens was christened Charles John Huffam, or Huffham, as it is erroneously entered in the parish register. But when he became famous he dropped the last two Christian names, as he desired to be known as plain Charles Dickens, a wish respected on his tombstone in Westminster abbey, by his biographer and friend John Forster and by the scrupulously accurate Dictionary of National Biography.

Opinion of an Actress.
Miss Ellen Terry at a reception once talked about the innumerable women who ask her to help them get on the stage. "The fact is," she said, "every woman under thirty believes she is an actress. 'And every actress,' she added, 'believes she is under thirty.'"

Anxious.
One day small Elmer observed five funerals pass the house. After the last one had passed he said, "Mamma, if we don't hurry up and die heaven will be so crowded we can't get in."—Exchange.

Considerate.
"The most considerate wife I ever heard of," said the philosopher, "was a woman who used to date all her letters a week or so ahead to allow her husband time to post them."

INDIANA POLITICS
ROBERT G. TUCKER.
Indianapolis, March 10.—Without wasting any time, Governor Marshall signed the general appropriations bill over which the Republicans and Democrats in the legislature wrangled five days before they reached a compromise. Hardly had the ink dried before the public till was being tapped by persons holding warrants against the state.

Governor Marshall is being congratulated on the result of his determination not to accept the bill until the appropriations were cut down to a point near the estimated revenues for the next two years. The action of the legislature is regarded as a personal victory for the governor, as there was a disposition among many Democrats to give the various institutions what they wanted. The feeling among the radical friends of some of the educational institutions is bitter toward the governor, and they are accusing him of pursuing a near-sighted policy that will cause the state to take a backward step. The bill was not cut as low as the governor desired, but he was willing to accept the compromise.

The Republican leaders are claiming that they won a victory and obtained the appropriations they desired, but the act itself shows that practically every amendment submitted by the senate and house Republicans was cut far below the amount they demanded. As the act stands the state would not be able to meet the appropriations but for use of some of the 3-cent sinking fund. In that matter the governor won his point, as he insisted that it should be provided that no more than $700,000 of the fund shall be used. The Republicans wanted to provide for the use of $900,000 which would have untied the purse-strings if any of the institutions found they were running short of coin. The governor is determined, however, that all of the institutions shall live within their appropriations.

The governor will take up the matter of appointments within a short time. He made a statement regarding a story that Burt New of North Vernon withdrew from the contest of the Democratic state ticket candidates after being assured by the Republican leaders that they would take care of the governor's counsel bill. The governor expects to appoint New to the position, which will pay $3,000 a year. He said that if any Republican senator will make a statement proving that there was an agreement between New and the Republicans by which the Democratic contest was headed off, that he will not appoint him. He will give the Republicans and New ten days in which to file statements of the charges. New was on the ticket for reporter of the supreme and appellate courts and was the first of the Democratic candidates to declare that he didn't believe the contest would amount to anything. During the consideration of the appropriations bill in the senate some of the Republicans tried to cut out the appropriations for the governor's counsel. They might have succeeded had not Senator Bland and others interfered. Some of the Republicans stated on the floor that there was an agreement to let the appropriation go through and that inasmuch as Governor Marshall had not been heard on the bill and because of his interest in it, they thought that the appropriation ought to be allowed.

The monthly health reports received by Dr. J. N. Hurty of the state board of health, in describing the health of the people of the different cities of the state, uses phrases varying from "free from contagious" to the expression of one physician who says the people of his district are "hopelessly healthful." The condition of the state from the standpoint of health is unusually good, considering that the month of February usually carries the burden of the ill health of the winter season.

The governor signed the Thornton cities and towns act, which was passed along with the general appropriations bill. It provides that cities of the fourth and fifth class shall be relieved of several officials. The cities that will be affected at once are Michigan City, Hammond, Logansport, Elkhart, Vincennes, Marion, Richmond, Lafayette and Kokomo. In these places present officials may be candidates to succeed themselves under the new law.

The Democratic members who called on the governor congratulated him on obtaining the passage of the bill providing for a sinking fund tax of 1½ cents on the $100. This will reduce the state tax levy 1½ cents after next year, and the enactment of the law is pointed to by the Democrats as being in line with the promises of their party to reduce the tax levy and to cut down expenditures.

Another Destructive Storm.
Cuthbert, Ga., March 10.—The northwestern section of Cuthbert was struck by a cyclone last night and almost totally destroyed. Many buildings are in ruins. One man was killed and many injured. There were about thirty loaded freight cars on the railroad track and these were all destroyed.

The New York stock market shows with growing clearness that substantial financial interests are holding aloof. The dealings dwindle and the current of the price movement is more and more sluggish.

THE PRESIDENT KEEPS OUT OF IT

Executive Refuses to Be Involved In House Quarrel.

DIPLOMATICALLY SIDESTEPS

Both Sides of the Question Were Presented to Mr. Taft in the Most Urgent Terms, but From All Indications the Executive Will Not Come Down Off the Fence to Take a Hand—Payne on One Hand and Gardner and Other "Insurgents" on the Other Use Their Most Persuasive Accents

Washington, March 10.—President Taft was given an opportunity to declare himself on the "insurgent" movement to revise the house rules diplomatically he sidestepped announcing how he stood. Representative Payne of New York, chairman of the committee on ways and means, sought the support of Mr. Taft for the existing order of things, and the "insurgent" case was advocated by Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, Madison of Kansas and Nelson of Wisconsin.

The three "insurgents" heard it charged that Mr. Taft intended to join hands with the house organization in the interest of getting the tariff bill through as soon as possible. Greatly disturbed as were the representatives, they hurried to the White House to urge Mr. Taft to take a soft seat on the fence and leave the fighting to them. When they came out of the executive offices Mr. Gardner declared with an exhibition of confidence that the "insurgents" were no longer in a compromising mood.

"We are firmly impressed that Mr. Taft is not opposed to a change of the rules," said Mr. Gardner, "but is a little fearful that a contest now would cross the line and interfere with the passage of the tariff bill."

An effort was made by Mr. Madison to show that there is no such danger in the fight they are conducting. He said that he had told Mr. Taft that he and his colleagues were not disposed to interfere with the continuance of the present ways and means committee, and that he thought he could promise that no objection would be made to the continuance of the old committees on any subjects that the president feels inclined to ask legislation at the present session.

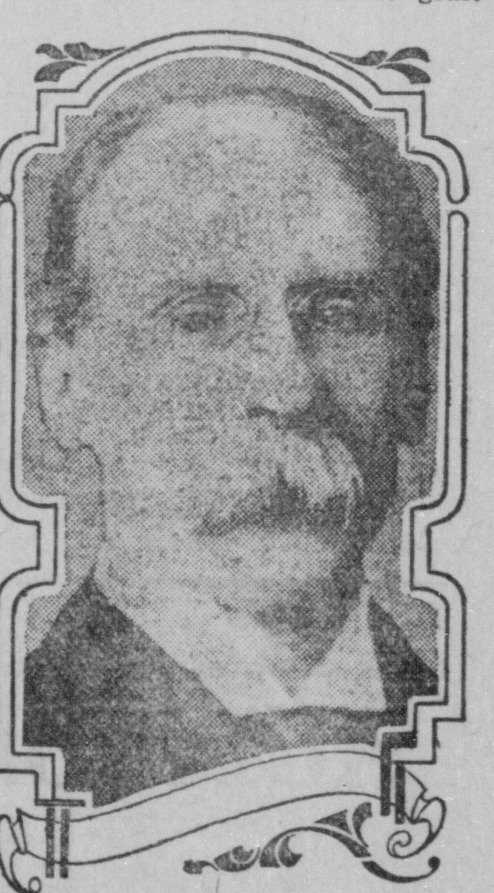

Another promise made by the "insurgent" delegation was that they would not filibuster against legislation if they made their fight and lost. They argued that the fight could be brought to an end in one day. By these conciliatory promises Mr. Madison said he did not mean that the fight would be abandoned if lost now. He said the "insurgents" would wait, however, until the proper time to renew it.

Mr. Payne was with the president only a few minutes. When he left the White House he said that he had told Mr. Taft that the tariff bill would be ready to report on the first day of the session, but that he could not prophesy what would happen if the present chaotic conditions in the house were to continue.

cases. The stereotyped answer of Mr. Blakely to all questions is, "There'll be something doing in a couple of days."

It is believed that an effort will be made to have the grand jury report true bills against persons not hitherto named in connection with the graft cases, some day this week. Dallas C. Byers, who was requested by Mr. Blakely to give evidence in the graft cases, is said to have sailed last Thursday for Europe.

People Will Talk You Know

And that's the reason why Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines are advertised so little now-a-days. They have made hundreds of thousands of cures in the past 40 years, and some of the grateful people whom they have restored to health are to be found almost everywhere. There's scarcely a hamlet that don't contain some. Look them up. Interview them. They are living, walking, active advertisements

For Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines.

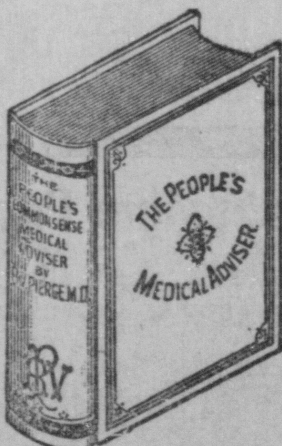

You can believe your neighbors. Therefore ask them. What cured them will very likely cure you, if similarly afflicted—only give them a good, fair trial.

It's a good, sound, common sense policy to use medicines only of KNOWN COMPOSITION, and which contain neither alcohol nor habit-forming drugs. The most intelligent people, and many of the most successful, conscientious physicians, follow this judicious course of action. The leading medical authorities, of all schools of medicine, endorse the ingredients composing Dr. Pierce's medicines. These are plainly printed on wrappers and attested under oath. There's no secrecy; an open publicity, square-deal policy is followed by the makers.

We have a profound desire to avoid all offense to the most delicate sensitiveness of modest women, for whom we entertain the most sincere respect and admiration. We shall not, therefore, particularize here concerning the symptoms and peculiar ailments incident to the sex for which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has for more than 40 years proven such a boon. We cannot, however, do a better service to the afflicted of the gentler sex than to refer them to Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a great family doctor book of 1000 pages, bound in cloth and given away gratis, or sent, post-paid, on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps—to cover cost of mailing only, or 21 cents for paper covered book. All the delicate ailments and matters about which every woman, whether young or old, single or married, should know, but which their sense of delicacy makes them hesitate to ask even the family physician about, are made plain in this great book. The New Castle Democrat, which has been a strong support to the temperance cause in Henry county, says:

"The liquor question is not a political one, and should not be made a party issue. The Democrat is of the opinion that the present county option issue was forced on the Republican party by Governor Hanly, more for personal and selfish motives than from a sense of right and expediency as a party measure. The wily Hanly took advantage of a sporadic temperance wave that originated in the south and has spread with rapidity over the sections of the country, to force the measure on his party in this State. What was his object? Clearly to ride into a seat in the United States Senate on the crest of the temperance wave and supplant Senator Beveridge. It does not require a far-seeing political prophet to discern his game. With seventy-five per cent. of the counties in Indiana "dry" he will force his party to adopt a platform of State-wide prohibition at the next Republican State convention. This having been accomplished he will claim as his reward the United States senatorship. The singular thing about the ex-Governor's temperance crusade campaign for the senatorship is the abject fear Republican leaders show in putting up a man to balk the aspirations of Hanly. They are scrambling over one another to get to his water wagon, and when his scheme has sufficiently matured he will force them to favor his Statewide prohibition. Thus the poor old Republican party in Indiana is under the absolute domination of one man where machinations will cause it in brief period of time to be swallowed up by the prohibition party."

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

GREWSOME MISTAKE.

(Shelbyville News.)

The sending of flowers and expressions of worth before death is seldom practiced in Shelbyville and an incident that came to light a few days ago, though seldom in its enactment, is, therefore, of note. A colored man was seriously ill. The rumor reached a friend he was dead an inquiry tended to substantiate. Hastening to the florist a beautiful design was purchased and sent to the house.

"Is this the place where a man is dead?" whispered the lad conveying the tribute.

"No," came the reply, "but he is very ill."

The flowers were left and a few days later the man did die. The wreath sent by the friend was the most conspicuous on the casket.

Equal Pay For Equal Work For Women.

By JOHN MITCHELL, Labor Leader.

I BELIEVE in EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL WORK for women, and I would have the women workers organized. MEN ARE GALLANT TO INDIVIDUAL WOMEN, BUT WHEN IT COMES TO THE GREAT BODY OF WOMEN IN BUSINESS THEY DO NOT GIVE THEM A THOUGHT, BUT LEAVE THEM TO HUSTLE AGAINST THE ODDS.

While I believe that under present conditions women should vote, I would prefer to see them in the home rearing children and making life brighter.

Conditions have driven women from the home, and as we must be governed by conditions we must GIVE THEM AN EQUAL SHOW in industrial pursuits.

All the women in the industrial world should organize so they can fight their battles and get their rights. The workmen have been the victims of a cruel industrial system, and the women are facing just such a system now. Unionism is fashionable now, but it used to be hard.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Yosemite Reservoir.

The Scenic Preservation society enters the lists prepared to "fight fire with fire" in the matter of the Yose-mite National park as the site of a municipal reservoir. Members of the society dispute the proposition of the petitioners for the grant that "the greatest good to the greatest number" will be secured if congress sanctions a huge retaining dam across Tuolumne river at the foot of Hetch-Hetchy valley, one of the finest gorges in the whole reservation. The water in the reservoir would of course be useless for drinking purposes unless a large area of the park drained by the river should be practically alienated from public use. Upon this point the New York Independent says:

The issue involves more than the destruction of Hetch-Hetchy. The reservoir assumes a divided use of the Tu-olumne watershed by the city as a source of supply and by the public as a recreation ground. The present state of sanitary progress holds these two uses to be incompatible without filtration or other purification process. The city advocates pass by nearer sources on the ground that they require filtration. Therefore the next move will be the restriction or exclusion of the public for camping and recreation from more than 500 square miles of the Yosemite National park. This includes the Tuolumne canyon and Tuolumne meadows. The former is the most remarkable canyon in the United States, the latter the finest and most spacious alpine valley for camping purposes in all the Sierra Nevada.

Half a billion is "a good deal of money" for the Panama ditch, but then to think of all the water high finance can pour into a $500,000,000 proposition if ever Uncle Sam wants to "hock" the securities.

France also wants two cent letter postage. Now, if the people interested can be taught to write readable letters in the language foreign to them this cut won't put much of a hole in the net revenues.

The New York cow that drinks beer is probably taking the sole method left for tiding over thirst until real water pours in through the Catskill pipes.

The Cubans are harvesting the biggest sugar crop ever raised on the island, and the people do rule. If the Pearl of the Antilles can't prosper after that send-off, Cuba libre is an ir-descent dream.

"I don't want to get even, and there is nothing to tell," said Necia, "except a girl's troubles, and I can't talk about them." She smiled a painful, crooked smile at him.

"Your old man has been rough to you?"

"No, no! Nothing of that sort." "Then it's that soldier?" he quizzed shrewdly. "I knew you cared a heap for him. Don't he love you?"

"Yes, that's the trouble, and he wants to marry me. He swears he will in spite of everything."

"See here, I don't quite follow. I thought you liked him. He's the kind most women go daffy over."

"Like him!" The girl trembled with emotion. "Like him! Why—why, I would do anything to make him happy."

"I guess I must be kind of dull," Stark said perplexedly. "Don't you see? I've got to give him up. I'm a squaw."

"Squaw, h—! With those shoulders!" Stark checked himself, for he found he was rejoicing in his enemy's defeat and was in danger of betraying himself to the girl. In every encounter the young man had bested him, and these petty defeats had crystallized his antipathy to Burrell into a hatred so strong that he had begun to lie awake nights planning a systematic quarrel.

He had brooded over his quarrel with Gale and the lieutenant ever since their first clash, for in this place they furnished the only objects upon which his mania could work, and it was a mania, the derangement of a diseased, distorted mind.

"So you like him too much to stand in his way," he said meditatively. "How does your father look at it?"

"He wants the lieutenant to marry me. He says he will fix it up all right. But he doesn't understand. How could he?"

"You are doing just right," concurred the man hypocritically, "and you'll live to be glad you stood out." Now that both his enemies desired this thing he was set on preventing it regardless of the girl. "How did the lieutenant take it when you refused him?"

"He wouldn't take it at all. He only laughed and declared he would marry me anyhow." The very thought thrilled her.

"Does he know you love him?" The tender, sobbing laugh she gave was ample answer.

"Well, what's your plan?"

"I—I don't know. I am so torn and twisted with it all that I can't plan, but I have thought I ought to go—away."

"Good!" he said quickly, but his acquiescence, instead of soothing her.

HAD QUIT WORK READY TO GIVE UP IN DESPAIR

Restored to Health By Vinol

"I was sick, run-down and finally had to give up work. After trying a number of remedies and several physicians, I was just about ready to give up in despair. I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and it has done more good for me than all other means combined. It has built me up and restored my strength until I now feel twenty years younger, and am able to attend to my work again as usual." Job Jeavons, 1036 Lind street, Wheeling, W. Va.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains tonic iron and all of the strengthening blood-making and body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil. Vinol is unexcelled as a strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness—and is the best known remedy for coughs, colds and bronchitis.

We return your money if Vinol fails to give satisfaction.

had the contrary effect, and she burst out impulsively:

"Oh—I can't—I can't! I can't go away and never see him! I can't do it! I want to stay where he is!" She had been holding herself in stubbornly, but at last gave way with reckless abandon.

"Why wasn't I born white like other girls? I've never felt like an Indian. I've always dreamed and fancied I was different, and I am in my soul. I know I am! The white is so strong in me that it has killed the red, and I'm one of father's people. I'm not like the other two. They are brown and silent and as cold as little toads. But I'm white and full of life all over. They never see the men and women that I see in my dreams. They never have my visions of the beautiful snow white mother with the tender mouth and the sad eyes that always smile at me."

"You have visions of such things, eh?"

"Yes, but I came a generation late, that's all, and I've got that other woman's soul. I'm not a half breed. I'm not me at all. I'm Merri—Merri! That's who I am."

Her face was turned away from him, so that she did not notice the frightful effect her words had upon Stark.

"Where did you get—that name?" His voice was pitched in a different key now. Then after a moment he added, "From the story I told you at the mine that night, I suppose?"

"Oh, no," she answered. "I've always had it, though they call me Necia. Merri was my father's mother. I guess I'm like her in many ways, for I often imagine she is a part of me, that her spirit is mine. It's the only way I can account for the sights I see."

"Your father's mother?" he said mechanically. "That's queer." He seemed to be trying to shake himself free from something. "It's hereditary, I suppose. You have visions of a white woman, a woman named Merri, eh?" Suddenly his manner changed, and he spoke so roughly that she looked at him in vague alarm.

"How do you know? How do you know she was his mother?"

"He told me so."

"I can show you her wedding ring. I've always worn it." She fumbled for the chain about her neck, but it eluded her trembling fingers. "It has her name in it—From Dan to Merri."

Stark's hand darted forward and tore the thing from her shoulders. Then he thrust it under the lamp and glared at the inscription, while his fingers shook so that he could barely distinguish the words. His eyes were blazing and his face livid.

Necia cried out, but he dropped the ornament and seized her fiercely, lifting her from the chair to her feet. Then with one swift, downward clutch he laid hold of her dress at the left shoulder and ripped it half to her waist. A hoarse sound came from his throat, a cry half of amazement, half of triumph.

"Let me go! Let me go!" She struggled to free herself, but he held her in a viselike grip, while he peered closely at a bluish well down upon her back. Then he let her slip from his grasp, and, seized with terror, she staggered away from him. He was leaning heavily with both hands upon the table, his thin lips grinning, his whole manner so terrifying that she shrank back. She turned and made for the door, whereupon he straightened up and said in a queer, commanding voice:

"Wait. Don't go. I—I—you!" He licked his lips as if they were dust, passed an uncertain hand across his bearded brow and, raising the water pail beside the door to his mouth, drank heavily in great, noisy gulps.

"Let me out of here!" the girl demanded imperiously.

"Don't be scared," he said, more quietly now. "You must excuse me. You—you gave me an awful fright. Yes, that was it. Don't worry. I didn't mean any harm."

"You hurt my shoulder," she said, almost ready to cry. "And you tore my dress," she added angrily—"my fine dress. Are you crazy?"

"You see, it's like this—that name of Merri and that ring—well, the whole thing was so startling I—I went off my head. It came sudden, and I thought—it didn't matter what I thought, but I'm sorry. I'll apologize, and I'll get you a whole lot of dresses if you like."

His first impulse had been to tell her everything, but his amazement had rendered him speechless, and now he was thankful for it. Care must be exercised. She must not learn too much, for if she suspected the truth she would go to her soldier lover at once, and no power on earth could hold her back. That would block the vengeance that he saw shaping in the dark recesses of his distorted brain.

First, and above all, he must get the girl away from Flambeau.

These last few moments had driven Necia's own worries from her mind, but he was bent on recalling them and so continued cautiously:

"You were saying that you thought more reasons than one. It will give you time to think it all over and know your own mind. I want to help you—I'm going to help you—because I've got an interest in you like you were mine." Again he betrayed that strange, mirthless amusement.

"There is no place for me to go," said Necia blankly, "except the mission, and I have no way of getting there."

"Don't you worry. I'll furnish the means, and you'd better go tonight!" she flinched—"yes, tonight. There's no use prolonging your agony. I'll get a boat ready and send a trusty man with you. The current is swift, and if he rows well you can make it by tomorrow evening. That's only one night out, and I'll put some blankets aboard so you can wrap up and have a sleep."

"I must go back and get some clothes," she said, at which he would have demurred had he not seen that she could not travel in her present condition.

"Very well. But don't let anybody see you."

"Of course not."

"It's getting late, and your folks will be abed." He looked at his watch. "Midnight! Be here in an hour."

The light of sacrifice was in Necia's eyes, and her cheeks were blanched with the pallor of a great resolution.

"I'll be here in an hour," she said simply.

He let her out, closed the door after her and locked it; then, drawing a deep breath, he raised his clinched hands above his head and gave a great sigh of exultation. Next he took out his six shooter and examined it carefully. The shells did not suit him, so he filled the gun with new ones, loosened the three lower buttons of his vest and slid the weapon inside his trousers band; then, facing the direction of Gale's trading post, he spoke aloud:

"I was a long time coming, Gaylord, but I'm here, and I've got you where I've wanted you these fifteen years! Yes, and I've got you, too, Burrell! By heaven, this is my night!"

His little body became panther-like in poise, his bearing that of the meat eating animal, and his face set in a fierce, exultant cruelty as he blew out his light and left the cabin.

Making a Bolt For It.

The monotony of crime in the police stations is relieved oftener than is generally supposed by an infusion of unexpected humor. This happy faculty of tickling the magistrate's sense of humor won a prisoner in a police station his liberty the other day.

The prisoner had told the magistrate that he was a locksmith by trade, and the magistrate asked:

"Well, were you on business in this gambling house at 2 o'clock in the morning?"

"Yes, your honor," replied the prisoner calmly. "I was making a bolt for the door."

When Comets Terrified.

To Evelyn a comet was a very terrifying phenomenon. He notes the appearance of one on Jan. 12, 1080, which he describes in his diary as "a meteor of an obscure bright color, very much in shape like the blade of a sword." "What this may portend," he adds, "God only knows, but such another phenomenon I remember to have seen in 1640 about the trial of the great earl of Strafford, preceding our bloody rebellion. I pray God avert his judgements."

Marches and Marches.

A schoolteacher in a small town saw some of George Eliot's works displayed in the window of the "general store" and went in to inquire if they had "Middlemarch."

"No, we haven't that," said the red cheeked girl who served as clerk, "but we have lots of others. Will one of Sousa's do?"

FAMILY CARES

This Information May be of Value to Many a Mother in Rushville.

When there is added to the many cares inseparable from the rearing of children that affliction of weakness of the kidneys and auxiliary organs, the mother's lot is far from a happy one. This condition can be quickly changed and absolutely cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. When this is known the mother's burden will be lighter and her home happier.

Mrs. Ulysses Beaver, 120 Fifth street, Rushville, Ind. says: "We were very much pleased with our experience in using Doan's Kidney Pills. They were given to our child for a kidney weakness and the relief was prompt. The trouble had caused much anxiety and was of great embarrassment to the child. Nothing that we gave her seemed to bring relief. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, we procured them at F. B. Johnson & Co's drug store and they soon cured our daughter of the difficulty. I feel it my duty to advise mothers having children similarly afflicted, to try Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Melburne Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

A Methodical Doing.

A man of method who attended to everything on schedule time, whether it was work or recreation, had the fortune to fall in love when he had passed the age of forty. The mistress of his heart put up with his oddities. He had regular nights for calling upon her, regular hours for coming and going, regular theater and club nights, etc. In fact, she looked upon his regularity as something admirable.

Things had been going on in this way for two years, and finally the great crisis came. They were to be married. The day was fixed, the wedding clothes were made, the guests invited, and the minister was engaged.

At the appointed time they were all assembled. The bride was dressed, the wedding presents were displayed, but the bridegroom came not. The bride wept and fainted, but it did no good. Finally some friends of the delinquent groom hurried away to see if he could be found. He could. He was at home in his room, reading as unconcerned as if he had never contemplated getting married.

"What is the matter? Why don't you come to your wedding?" shouted his friends.

The man of regular habits laid down his book.

"I am very sorry," he said, "but this is my regular day for staying at home and reading. I forgot it when I made the engagement. The wedding will have to be postponed."—London Tit-Bits.

Bryan's Jet Black Stove Polish.

Is the best stove polish on the market. This is not our own verdict, alone, but that of a constantly increasing number of users who really constitute the "court of last appeal" in the matter of the utility of any article.

Bryan's Jet Black is easy to apply, shines with least polishing, gives a lasting jet black lustre which makes the stove a "thing of beauty." This polish is not only clean, smokeless, dustless and odorless, but it lengthens the life of any stove. Manufactured in both liquid and paste form. For sale wherever stove polishes are sold.

The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is scanty, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

GOVERNOR HAS A PROPOSITION

Compromise Sought in Matter of Custodian.

TO BE LEFT TO THE LAWYERS

Seeking a Way Out of Dispute Which Rose in the Closing Hours of the Indiana Legislature, the Governor Proposes to Leave the Matter of the Appointment of a State House Custodian to a Committee of Lawyers Selected by Amicable Agreement.

Indianapolis, March 10.—Governor Marshall has received numerous congratulations for his victory in the appropriation bill fight, as it is looked upon in legislative circles largely as a personal victory. It is understood that the governor, while not thoroughly satisfied with the bill as passed, found it contained appropriations approximately $100,000 lower than he had hoped to see under the circumstances.

The question of the appointment of a custodian, or superintendent, of the state house and public grounds, contrary to a belief somewhat widespread, did not enter into the governor's consideration of the appropriation bill. He took the stand at the start that the law vested in the governor the power of appointment to this office, and having once arrived at the conclusion, he put the question aside.

When asked what course he would pursue concerning the appointment, the governor said:

The Governor's Proposition.

"When the time comes to consider an appointment for the place I will confer with the secretary of state and the auditor of state, and I will propose to them that I shall select an attorney, that they shall select a second, to go over the question of right of appointment. If these two cannot agree upon the question, they shall select a third, and I propose that we shall abide by the decision of such a board of arbitration, as it were.

"If they do not choose to meet those conditions, I shall proceed to appoint a man to the place, under the law as I now understand it."

The office of custodian carries twenty-three appointments, a head of the department, an assistant, three policemen, one fireman, one carpenter, one roofer and fifteen janitors. The present number in the department was established under the regime of former Custodian George Krietenstein, who was custodian under Governor Durbin.

HELD ON SUSPICION

Husband of Murdered Woman Locked Up Without Bond.

Connersville, Ind., March 10.—John Wilson was arrested at the home of his mother-in-law. He is the husband of Mrs. Lulu Maud Wilson, who was murdered at their home in this city last Wednesday morning. Wilson is not accused of any crime, but he is held pending further investigation by the prosecutor and the sheriff, the coroner having failed to fix responsibility for the crime.

The arrest of Wilson was made at the instigation of an Indianapolis detective, F. L. Adams. Adams said his chain of circumstantial evidence is sufficient to convict Wilson without a doubt. He said he established a motive for the murder when he ascertained that Wilson carried two small insurance policies on his wife's life, the two policies aggregating about $150. Adams said he could prove by Joseph Hauck, Wilson's brother-in-law, that Wilson boasted to his wife in Hauck's presence that the money would be paid him in case of her death. Adams said there was an imprint of a new rubber boot in the blood on a sheet of the bed in which the woman was murdered, and that he learned that Wilson purchased a new pair of rubber boots about three weeks ago. The imprint of the boot shows that the rubber sole was little, if any, worn. Measurement showed the imprint to be that of a No. 9 boot. This was the size of the pair bought by Wilson. The boots are missing.

Adams said two coat sleeves covered with blood had been found on a railroad track some distance from the Wilson home, and the investigation showed that the sleeves belonged to a coat that had been purchased by Wilson's brother, who lives in another part of Connersville, and who was at his work at the time of the murder. Adams said he had witnesses to prove that Wilson had driven his wife from her home several times, and that she went to the home of her mother at these times. Wilson "stood pat" when questioned and declared he knew nothing about the murder. He was locked up without bond until the investigation is finished.

Miller to Succeed Kealing.

Washington, March 10.—Senator Beveridge has formally recommended to President Taft the appointment of C. W. Miller, former attorney general of Indiana, as the successor of United States Attorney J. W. Kealing of Indianapolis. The president promised to make the appointment.

"THE UNWRITTEN LAW"

Tennessee Lawyer Urges It Against Editors of Caustic Pen.

Nashville, Tenn., March 10.—The unwritten law was extended to cover editors who attack private or public men, by General Meeks of counsel for defense in the Cooper-Sharp trial for the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack. The sensation was sprung during General Meeks's speech to the jury. Previously he had expressly disclaimed the belief that any editorial attack justified killing the writer. But when warmed up to his subject, with a burst of eloquence, he said:

"You talk of the liberty of the press. Why, gentlemen, no man lives who believes more firmly in the liberty of the press than I do. But when a man in an editorial position turns the liberty of the press into license and under takes to defame and defile you and your family, what are you going to do? The prosecution will tell you you have your recourse in the courts. Yes, and you get a judgment for $25,000 against a man not worth the price of a plug of tobacco. Is that satisfaction?"

"Oh, gentlemen, I tell you that the streets of this, our city, have run red before with the blood of men who improperly used other men's names in public prints."

General Meeks devoted five hours to the speech. He painted the defendants as the finest types of southern aristocracy and breeding, declaring no crime had been committed when Senator Carmack was shot to death, and closed with a dramatic appeal to the jury to "turn loose this gallant old soldier," Colonel Cooper.

RECALLS MEMORIES OF STAFFLEBACK CRIMES

Death of Aged Criminal in Kansas Penitentiary.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 10.—Mrs. Nancy Wilson, generally known as Mrs. Staffleback, one of the most notorious woman prisoners in the Kansas penitentiary, died of pneumonia in a cell in the woman's ward last evening. Mrs. Staffleback was seventy-nine years old. When she realized her serious condition she asked that her son, George Staffleback, a life-time convict, and Charles Wilson, her second husband, another convict, be brought to her bedside. They were taken over by the prison officials, and told they could remain with her until she died.

Mrs. Staffleback was brought to the Kansas penitentiary in May, 1897, to serve a twenty-one-years' sentence for murder in the second degree. At the same time two of her sons were brought in under life sentences, a third son to serve seven years, and Charles Wilson, her husband, to serve twenty-five years. One of the sons serving a life sentence, died four years ago. The third one served out his sentence of seven years, and it is reported he is now serving a term in the Missouri penitentiary at Jefferson City.

The Stafflebacks lived near Galena, Kan., and were accused of numerous and atrocious murders. They ran a hotel, and it was alleged that they murdered guests who had money and threw the bodies into a deserted mine.

BAD STOMACH

Many in Rushville are being Thoroughly Purified by Mi-o-na, the Guaranteed Cure for Indigestion

People of Rushville who suffer from dyspepsia and other stomach troubles are getting tired of taking preparations containing pepsin, because pepsin simply digests the food artificially. Pepsin relieves, it never cures.

And remember, pepsin only digests animal food; it has no effect on starchy food, such as potatoes, rice, bread, etc.

Mi-o-na cleanses and purifies the stomach and bowels, and tones up and puts energy into the stomach walls, so that they properly mix the food with the natural digestive juices of the stomach.

Mi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction, and in a few days it is able to do its work easily and without exertion. There will be no more sour stomach, fermentation of food, dizziness, sick headache, belching of gas, or foul breath.

Mi-o-na only costs 50 cents a large box, and is guaranteed by F. B. Johnson & Co. to dyspepsia, sea or car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and stomach sickness resulting from over-indulgence of the night before.

AMUSEMENTS

Good crowds attended the shows at the Vaudet last night in spite of the inclement weather. A good bill is offered tonight in the two subjects "A Sister's Love," and "A Cure for Bashfulness." The last picture is comic. Miss Clara Gregg will sing "Sunshine."

"On the War Path" is the subject of the film to be shown at the Grand theater tonight. This subject is a feature film and is a great western drama made real. It depicts a story of true western life with a beautiful romance intermingled. The Indians are shown on the war path and a troupe of soldiers interfere at the right time and save several lives. Miss Iva Brown will sing "She is My Bonnie Jean."

The story of "The Lion and the Mouse" is concisely this: John Burkett Ryder, the richest man in the world, who controls the government, suddenly finds that his gigantic schemes are blocked by the decisions of a federal Justice, Judge Rossmore. Ryder swears to ruin him, and does financially, besides making arrangements to have him impeached in the Senate.

The Judge's daughter, Shirley Rossmore, and Ryder's boy, Jefferson, meet on a trip abroad, fall in love and return engaged. The girl, learning of her father's impending dishonor, determines to save his good name. She writes a book, scoring Ryder, his like and their methods, which creates a sensation.

Ryder sends for her and is so captivated by her wit and womanliness that he engages her to write his autobiography, making her a member of his household. Of course, discovery is certain, and in a tremendous scene between these two, the lion and the mouse, the girl leaves the house.

A performance will be given in the auditorium in Connersville next Friday evening.

"Madam Butterfly," which will be heard at the Auditorium Saturday evening, was not a popular success at the time of its first production in Italy. Puccini, the composer had Otley Cranston.

visited America, witnessed the performance of the drama by John Luther Long and David Belasco and had spent a year in the composition of the score, but the critics viciously attacked his work and it seemed doomed to oblivion.

Characteristic of the man, undaunted by the prophecy of absolute failure, Puccini made a careful survey of the criticisms, retired to his villa near Florence and spent many months of hard labor correcting the score.

Upon the second hearing the work proved an immensely popular success. The word flashed about Europe and inside of a few months all the leading operas had placed it in their permanent repertory. Since that time it has broken records for the number of productions in most of the big cities in the world.

When the master piece is heard in this city the leading role will be interpreted by Miss Adelaide Norwood, who was selected by Puccini himself to create the role in America; or by Miss Louie Colier, who created the role in England; or by Miss Myrtle Thornburg, a phenomenal young American prima donna who was recently selected by Franz Lehár to sing the name part in his world wide success, "The Merry Widow." Other members of the cast to be seen here were in the original production.

The Vaudet will have a talking picture tonight, using the subject "An Actress Child."
